AAS L. BECKMAN KILLED ON TRACK

Was Either Struck by Passenger of Fell from Freight Train.---Body Found Early Sunday Morning, and He died an Hour Later at the Hospital.

Asa H. Beckman, of Seabrook, aged 22, unmarried, was struck by a train on the Boston and Maine railroad, near Frenchman's lane late Saturday night and he died at an early hour Sunday morning at the Cottage hospital.

The body was found by Wilfred H. Johnson, who lives on the Peverly Hill road, shortly before one o'clock. Mr. Johnson was on his way home and was walking up the track when he came across the body of Beckman lying between the two tracks almost at the Frenchman's Lane crossing. He thought the man was drunk and after trying to arouse him he walked back to the overhead bridge at the Creek and there met Conductors Edward, Sterling and William Carlton of the electric road, who were just coming from the car barn.

They all three returned and as soon as a light was secured it was seen that the body was lying in a pool of blood. He was still breathing and the police station was notified and the ambulance sent to the scene and Dr. J. J. Berry called.

The unconscious man was removed to the Cottage hospital but he never recovered consciousness, dying shortly before three o'clock. He had been struck on the head and a fractured skull was one of the many inuries.

There was nothing on the body by which it could be identified, and it was not until late Sunday afternoon that Mr. Asa Beckman, the father of the boy, came here looking for his son, that it was identified. He recognized the body and at once madd arrangements for the removal to Seabrook today.

There is a question as to how he came to his death. He was seen about the city Saturday evening and was at the depot late inquiring if there was a train for Newburyport. On being answered in the negative he evidently started to walk home, and either attempted to board the local freight which left here at 10.30 or was struck by the Bar Harbor express due here at 11.38. The body was found at 12.45 so that in any case he must have lain in the tracks for some time after he was injured.

We noticed that Mother's day was observed by some of our townspeople who at least wore the white carnation in their buttonholes.

On Tuesday evening in Odd Fellows' hall, Constitution lodge, Knights of Pythias, will hold their regular meeting.

There are other ways of trying to pass a team with an automobile, in a narrow place besides deliberately running into the team and pushing it to one side, as was done in town on Saturday by a large touring car. It certainly was a miracle that the horse did not run away or anyone get hurt by the sudden shock of an automobile striking one full force. The chauffeur in this case certainly was willing to take chances.

Deacon Abraham Hill of Eliot was a visitor in town on Sunday and delivered the forenoon address at the Kittery Point Congregational church.

The Wentworth Tigers ball team won the game on Saturday morning from the team of the Horace Mitchell school, by a score of 17 to 8. The winning team used only one pitcher, while the losing team used three and then lost.

BUSIEST POLICE COURT FOR A LONG TIME

George Birdsong Held for Grand Jury Without Bail

Scrappers, Musicians and Drunks Help to Keep up the Activity

Today was a "big day" in the police court and an overflow in the morning session took up the time of a large delegation of spectators.

There was an elaborate collection of boose fighters, others bagged by the police on Saturday and Sunday. The line-up included local, suburban and foreign talent, who told their tales to Judge Simes for an hour or more.

Boose and a Fiddler

Alexander Smith conducted a May party on Russel street and a bad feature of Alex's social ideas was that he held the shindig on Sunday.

Along in the afternoon the police with no visiting cards, called and found Alex doing the honors in royal style. There was a fiddler tearing off strains, jig reels and hornpipes, and everybody was apparently happy.

They quit the fiddler when the brass button brigade showed up and got busy juggling beer bottles under the bed.

Alex was ordered to come to the court today and he was there on time with a plea of not guilty to keeping beer for sale.

He said he had a mortgage on one case of beer only, and the remainder of the conversation water belonged to his brother and the guests.

His case comes up again at higher court, and he was last heard from digging up $200 bail money.

The Drunks Came Next

Joseph Gabrie, another who danced to a fiddler on Green street, said he was only half drunk and that the boarders in the house purchased the beer for his thirst. His dancing and drinking cost just $10.60.

Chased by an Auto

John Funk and Patrick Downing were mixed up with several other marines in a fight near the docks on Saturday evening. A telephone message brought the police on the scene and the whole outfit dashed away in all directions. The police went after them via Henry Payne's auto delivery and captured Funk and Downing.

Today it was brought out that Funk had been spotted by several of his comrades and, though he was on duty on this side of the river, they took the opportunity and beat him up badly.

Downing claimed that he simply acted as a peacemaker and was not drunk.

The court ordered the fine alike, and it cost them $2.00 and $6.13 each.

Owen Dickey of Deerfield had more sorrow today than he has ever had in Deerfield and it was all caused by the position in which he was placed. Owen had a job in Maine which he could get, even if he did not reach the Pine Tree state for ten years. He was willing to go there, not simply for the job, but to mingle with the cold water brigades that are numerous in that state and climb on the first water wagon that met his gaze.

He got a chance and was last seen handing Toll Collector Falvey 2 cents for a passage across the bridge that spans the beautiful Piscataqua.

Richard Falvey, who passed his boyhood days in Fall River, was another drunk who had work in Portland, but he thought of it too late. His case was that of a Sunday sport and before he goes on that job in Portland he will have to produce the necessary $16.90 to get his release.

Henry Shaw, a Saturday drunk, got his release.

Trouble at Newington

The rush was nearly over when Constable Pickering, who defends the law at Newington, nearly out of breath, pushed his way through the crowd and landed George McGowan before the tribunal. George had been making ventilation holes in window glass and smashing up furniture and stoves at the home one Wilson. George had little to say, and as for getting up his muscle on the household goods, he passed over $5.00 and costs, $6.90.

Held Without Bail

The case of George Birdsong, charged with a criminal assault, continued from last week, was heard again this morning. The court found probable cause and held him for the October grand jury without bail.

EVENTS OF ELIOT

Good Number of Cottages to be Erected

Summer Visitors Are Daily Getting More Numerous

Eliot, May 10.--Walter Langley has bought another horse to replace the one killed by an electric car last winter.

Mrs. Herbert H. Foss has been visiting relatives in Rollinsford.

The navy yard workmen are indignant at the open car furnished them at 6.45 a. m. and 1.00 p. m. They say that it is too cold for an open car at those hours of the day.

Arthur Clapp of the Christian store, Portsmouth, has been visiting Murray Nelson at South Eliot.

The advance guard of the summer visitors is causing an increase in the attendance at the churches. They are coming every day.

It is stated that the old steamboat Dick R., which is being transformed into a houseboat, will not be used by the Green Acre Fellowship, as was supposed, but has been bought by a Boston party not connected with Green Acre.

More than a dozen houses and cottages are in various stages of construction, from the breaking of the ground to the application of shingles and clapboards. Dover and South Berwick people on the Piscataqua bank below the Old River road are building a regular little village. The others are scattered. More are to be started this month and the total will be not far from twenty-five.

SPECIAL MESSAGE ON PORTO RICO

Washington, May 10.—President Taft this morning sent a special message to Congress on the difficulty in Porto Rico where the legislature has refused to pass an appropriation and taxation bill. The message recommends some changes in the form of government, says that the Porto Ricans have evidently forgotten the generosity of the United States and sharply raps the political forces on the island. It also calls for some legislation to make it compulsory for the legislature to provide for the running expenses of the territorial government.

WITH THE BOWLERS

COUNTRY CLUB A SURE WINNER OF CLUB LEAGUE AT ELKS' ALLEYS.—LAST WEEK'S GAMES MADE SOME CHANGES AND FIGHT FOR SECOND PLACE VERY KEEN.—THE AVERAGES.

The result of the bowling this past week in the club bowling league at the Elks alleys has made one or two changes in the standing of the teams. The Country club still hold their lead in fact have won 25 out of possible 28 points so that they are practically sure of first place. The P. A. C. took second place from the Warwick Club and now lead that team by three points. The Warwick Club are back in third place and the Elks and the Catholic Union are tied for fourth place, although the Elks have the greatest pin fall of any of the teams with the exception of the Country Club and the Catholic Union are a close third. The Royal Arcanum continued their winning streak last week and secured three more points and while they have no chance of winning, having taken the place of the Yacht Club with no points to their credit, they stand a good chance of getting out of last place. Their pin fall has been large and in that respect they lead the league in average strings. Whether they can continue is a question to be decided later. This week they will meet the Elks and if they split even with this fast bunch they will be doing well.

There were very few changes in the individual averages, all of the Country Club members were raised somewhat by the excellent rolling on Friday evening, but Bass is the only man over 90 per cent.

The games this week are, Tuesday Elks vs. Royal Arcanum, Wednesday P. A. C. vs. Country Club and Thursday the Warwick club and the Catholic Union.

You Better Not Get Dyspepsia

If you can help it. Kodol prevents Dypepsia, by effectually helping Nature to Relieve Indigestion.

A great many people who have trifled with indigestion, have been sorry for it—when nervous or chronic dyspepsia resulted, and they have not been able to cure it.

Everyone is subject to indigestion. Stomach derangement follows stomach abuse, just as naturally and just as surely as a sound and healthy stomach results upon the taking of Kodol.

When you experience sourness of stomach, belching of gas and nauseating fluid, bloated sensation, gnawing pain in the pit of the stomach, heart burn (so-called), diarrhoea, headaches, dullness or chronic tired feeling—you need Kodol. And then the quicker you take Kodol—the better. Eat what you want, let Kodol digest it.

Ordinary pepsin "dyspepsia tablets," physics, etc., are not likely to be of much benefit to you, in digestive ailments. Pepsin is only a partial digester—and physics are not digesters at all. Kodol is a perfect digester. Every tablespoonful will digest 2¼ pounds of food.

Our Guarantee. Get a dollar bottle of Kodol. If you are not benefited—the druggist will at once return your money. Don't hesitate: any druggist will sell you Kodol on these terms. The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c bottle. Kodol is prepared in the laboratories of E. C. De Witt & Co., Chicago.

Mrs. M. W. Keen was a visitor in York on Friday.

Tug Portsmouth, Capt. Charles L. Perkins, left here at six o'clock Sunday morning with the brick laden barge New Castle in tow for Dorchester, docked the barge there and was tied up at East Boston at 3.50 p. m. From light to light the tug was enveloped in thick fog, and considering this the passage was a remarkably fast one.

Tug Piscataqua arrived Sunday with barge P. N. Co., No. 10, with brick from York for Portland.

Edward W. Cousens of Kennebunk has rented the store of Jesse E. Frisbee and on May 15 will establish a home bakery there. The building is now being put in readiness for occupancy. Mr. Cousens will reside in the store with his family.

But for the past that two pairs of tennis shoes were in evidence "down street" Saturday evening one might be inclined to dispute the fact that spring had arrived. Such vile, disagreeable, chilly and altogether unspeakable weather as that now prevailing has certainly not been experienced here within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

The lake built collier William Chisholm attracted considerable attention in the harbor Saturday evening. She came in light from Boston, picked up the barge Iowa and sailed for Newport News. The Chisholm was at this port last fall on her first visit here. She is now owned by the Seaboard Transportation company of New York but until recently hailed from Cleveland, O., where she was built in '01.

The Mitchell School Ball Game

The following interesting note is furnished for publication:

I wish to state that the game played between my boys of the Horace Mitchell school and the Portsmouth boys last Saturday, May 8th, was an unfair game, as Pruett had no right in the box. He is a high school pupil and consequently any game pitched by him cannot be called a grammar school game.

I wish to let the boys know that it was not my boys' fault as they do not know the game yet and I was absent on Saturday.

If I had been with them Pruett would not have pitched.

The score must not be entered in the paper or on the baseball records under the name of a grammar school game.

The Horace Mitchell G. S. will play in Portsmouth on May 15th and this game will be called the first game, and no high school pupils will be allowed to play.

Prin. Horace Mitchell School.

F. S. Fair play is what I insist on, and no game can be played and enjoyed without it. J. W. S. H.

WON AT BASE BALL

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM DEFEATED NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE RESERVES IN WELL PLAYED GAME.—SUNDAY BASE BALL AT THE NAVY YARD.

The high school baseball team defeated the New Hampshire college reserves in a well played game at the Plains on Saturday afternoon. W. Brackett who pitches for the local team was very much the goods and he struck out ten men and allowed only six hits and these were well scattered. He received good support from the team and the two errors made were not costly. The game is the best the team has played this season and it is showing a rapid improvement. It was a good game to watch, for every play was snappy and the nine innings were played in 1hr and 1sm, which is fast time.

The score by innings:

DOVER DOINGS

Dover, May 10.—The funeral of Mrs. Edith (Wyman) Gordon, wife of Harris F. Gordon, who died on Thursday night, aged 38, took place at the family residence on Washington street at 7 o'clock Saturday evening, Rev. Benjamin F. Eaton of the Pierce memorial Universalist church officiating. The burial will be in the family lot in the cemetery at Woburn. Mrs. Gordon was a native of Medford, Mass.

The body of Edward Everett Vinal who died at Dorchester, Mass., aged 43, was brought here Saturday afternoon and interred in Pine Hill cemetery, Rev. Evarts W. Pond conducting the committal service.

The board of health decided to remove the scarlet fever restriction against Sunday schools and theatres from which children under 16 were excluded three weeks.

Dover high school defeated Rochester high on Saturday at Centre Park, 6 to 1. Nixon, the first man up, came home on a wild pitch. After that Morang pitched well and was well supported.

Young America will have no cause for complaint from now on for lack of playground facilities in Dover. After two years of agitation in the youngsters' behalf, it has remained for Mayor Foster's administration to secure the much desired playgrounds, one on the north side, the other on the south side. The problem was very satisfactorily solved by a committee from the city councils, which reported Thursday evening that it had secured the free use of the Guppy field on Portland street for the north side ground and the Towle field on Silver street at an annual rental of $260, for the south side ground. The report was accepted and an appropriation of $400 was made to meet the rental on the latter field and to lay out the playgrounds.

It is now generally understood that J. Belknap Guppy, owner of the Guppy field and the magnificent grove of pines adjoining, will eventually deed this property to the city for a public park. The tract is about 15 acres in extent. Under the present arrangement the city will have free use of the land for playground purposes, the only condition imposed being that no cutting shall be done in the woodland. This is regarded a very generous and public spirited act on Mr. Guppy's part.

Peter F. McAdam died on Saturday at his home on Payne street, aged 52. He came here from Ireland 37 years ago. He is survived by his wife, five sons and three daughters.

Everything at the Luddy and Currier shoe factory came practically to a standstill Saturday and there has been a large exodus of former employes which has had its effect on business in retail trade. Factories in Lynn and Newburyport have engaged many, while some have remained and gone to work in the Pacific mills. It is hardly probable, however, that such a finely equipped plant as the Luddy and Currier company left will long lie idle.

Fred Davis, who escaped from the Lowell jail on Friday evening, is well known in this city, as he used to be a resident of Dover. He became acquainted with the local police during his stay here.

Frank M. Libby, former superintendent of streets, is soon to remove his family to Portland, Me., where he has a lucrative position with a woodworking concern of that city.

A. B. Paton, superintendent of the American Woolen mills at Sawyer's, is soon to move his family to this city. They will reside in the old Brewster house on Cushing street, which has recently been purchased by the company.

This week will be a busy one in social circles, a fitting close to a most pleasant winter. The Dover Choral society will produce the opera "Mascot" on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, and earlier in the week the Woman's club will hold its last regular meeting for the club year. On Tuesday evening, also, the grand encampment ball of the New Hampshire Independent Order Odd Fellows will take place. This in itself is an important social event in fraternity circles. Thursday evening Crescent company, Uniform Rank Knights of Pythias is to entertain guests at a select dancing party to be held at the casino in Central park, and on Friday afternoon the art needlework department of the Woman's club is to hold an important meeting at Central hall. The Father Matthew, C. T. A. society will hold one of its invitation dancing parties at American hall on Friday evening.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust sediment, or settling, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. # PASTORS SUED BY BELGIUM

Missionaries Bared to Score a Big Rubber Trust

$40,000 DAMAGES ASKED

Charged With "Caluminous Denunciation" In Exposing Alleged Methods of Belgian Officials In Squeezing Oppressive "Taxes" Out of Natives—Outcome Will Have Important Bearing on Future of Many Missionaries

London, May 10.—All white men in the Congo Free State are intensely interested in the trial for libel of two American missionaries, Rev. William Morrison and Rev. W. F. Sheppard, which, according to latest report, will begin in Leopoldville, May 20.

This case is expected to be a test between the Belgian government and the American missionaries, who have long made themselves a thorn in its flesh by their charges of mal-administration and oppression of the natives in connection with the rubber trade.

The suit is brought by one of the concessionaire companies called the "Kasai Trust," which has a monopoly of rubber gathering in the Kasai region. It claims $20,000 damages from each of the missionaries for "caluminous denunciation."

The Belgian government holds half the stock of the "Kasai Trust" and a majority of its directors are Belgian officials, so that the suit may be considered practically one by the Belgian government against the missionaries.

In substance, the charges which the missionaries have made are that the officials levy upon the natives oppressive so-called taxes to be paid in rubber; that whole villages, including women and children, are impressed by the soldiers for gathering the rubber; that they often are compelled to travel many miles to the rubber forests and sleep there for more than a week under unhealthy conditions; that they are cruelly punished for failure to fulfill the taxes imposed and that so large a proportion of their time is taken for gathering these taxes that they are unable to cultivate crops and raise food enough for their support.

Messrs. Morrison and Sheppard are members of the American Presbyterian mission and are stationed at Ibanja, a long distance from Leopoldville.

The American consul, W. H. Handley, has been instruced by the government to proceed from Boma to Leopoldville to watch the trial, which, of course, will be conducted by Belgian officials. Some twenty American missionaries are stationed in the Congo, and as nearly all of them have levelled the same accusations against the administration that the defendants in this suit have made, its outcome will have an important bearing upon their future there.

BY LAND AND SEA

Determined Efforts Being Made to Capture a Moro Bandit Leader

Manila, May 10.—An unusual manhunt is in progress in the Sulu Islands, a volcanic group in the eastern archipelago of the Philippines. For several months a Moro mandit named Jikeri, with a considerable following, has been on the rampage. The insular government is making every effort to run him down.

The navy recently lent to the authorities a squadron of gunboats to search the numorous small islands of the group and now another vessel is to be added to assist in the strange chase. Several land detachments have also been sent out.

GOTHAM'S LATEST MYSTERY

Body of Wire Manufacturer Found Floating In North River

New York, May 10.—The discovery of the corpse of a well-dressed, middle-aged man in North river has given the police a mystery to work upon. The body was identified as that of John A. Edwards, a wire manufacturer of Orange, N. J.

SULTAN'S SWORD GIRDED

Ancient Ceremony Which No Christian Is Permitted to Witness

Constantinople, May 10.—A procession marched through the principal streets of Stamboul today after the girding of the sword upon Mehmed V. This ceremony, which corresponds to that of coronation, took place in the Mosque Ayoub, the single mosque in Constantinople which Christians are not allowed to enter or even congregate about the entrance or courtyard. It lasted but a few minutes and no foreign eyes witnessed the ancient rite of the spiritual power consigning the temporal power to the sultan.

The sultan proceeded from the Dolma Bagtsche palace to the mosque, which stands at the water's edge, in a launch, and from there, attended by many functionaries, went to the Top Kapuo palace to kiss the robe of the prophet.

The sultan's train made a rich display of fabrics, jeweled arms and fine horses. It was witnessed from a reviewing stand by the diplomatic corps and distinguished foreigners.

FAITHFUL TO MORSE

Friends Are Willing to Put Up Almost Unlimited Bail Bond

New York, May 10.—Bearing the signatures of more than a score of men prominent in the banking and commercial world, a petition was presented to the United States circuit court of appeals today asking that Charles W. Morse, the convicted banker now in the Tombs, be admitted to bail pending a decision on his appeal.

The petition states that the signers are willing to become responsible upon Morse's bail bond for the sum of $5000 each, without indemnity, because they "do not believe that he will leave the jurisdiction of the court, and that when his case is finally heard and understood he will be acquitted."

A number of the signers, it is said, have agreed to furnish double, triple or even ten times the amount stated in the petition, thus assuring a million dollars or more, if necessary.

WANT TO TEACH US TO PLAY PROPERLY

Playground Experts Also Seek Quieter Fourth of July

Pittsburg, May 10.—Instruction of the children and adults of the United States in the art of playing properly, without infringing on the rights of those not participating in the pastime, is one of the purposes of the Playground Association of America, which opened its third annual congress here today.

Large cities in every part of the Union are represented at the congress. Mayor Magee of this city, in his invitation to city officials to attend the congress themselves and send representatives of the cities, said:

"The purpose of the congress and the association is to encourage the provision of adequate playground facilities for children and adults. Many matters for which the members of the congress will seek a solution are those which are rapidly becoming important issues in many of our great cities."

Among the speakers will be Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York, Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, Joseph Lee, president of the Massachusetts Civic league; Representative James Francis Burke, Mayor Magee and Dr. Luther H. Gulick of New York. Among the recommendations which will be made will be the substitution of dancing festivals for the present noisy celebration of the Fourth of July and for the almost equally noisy observance of New Year's eve.

IMPLICATING THIRD PARTY

Boyle Will Try to Tell His Sensational Story

DOUBLE SUICIDE THREAT

Mrs. Boyle, Convicted of Aiding, Assisting and Abetting In the Abduction of Young Whitla, Says She Has Made All Arrangements to Depart From Life Rather Than Live In Penitentiary

Mercer, Pa., May 10.—Unless present plans are changed James H. Boyle and his wife, Helen Anna Boyle, will be sentenced by Judge Williams today for the abduction of "Billy" Whitla.

MRS. J. H. BOYLE.

Previous to the sentencing Attorneys Miller and Stranahan will ask for new trials, but it is expected the court will overrule the motions.

The probability is that Boyle will make a scene in the courtroom when sentence is announced. Every effort will be made by the authorities to prevent such a happening, but it is certain that if permitted Boyle will again attempt to tell a sensational story, implicating a third party in the kidnapping. Mrs. Boyle asserts she will have nothing to say when sentenced. She says:

Jimmy has something to say and ought not to be gagged. I will not say anything, but Jimmy will, and I will aid him to have his say if I can.

"Seriously, I want to tell you there is going to be a double suicide. I will not spend much time in the penitentiary. I have made all arrangements and have the means now to depart quietly and quickly. Jimmy will do the same.

Do you think I am going to the penitentiary for many years? No, sir. When my sentence would expire I would be an old woman. I would have no friends and no money. Who wants anything to do with an old woman? I would rather die young.

"This is my twenty-third birthday and am I not in a very poor position to celebrate the event? I am innocent of crime, however, and maybe God in His goodness will yet allow me to spend many happy anniversaries. But yet there is the shadow of the penitentiary and the remedy—suicide.

"I am very sincere in this matter. Do you see that writing pad over there on the table? Well in that I will soon write my will and last message."

After the sentencing of the abductors they will probably be taken as soon as possible to the penitentiary. It is believed an appeal to the supreme court of Pennsylvania will be taken in the woman's case. However, she maintains that when she realizes her case is hopeless she will take her life.

Mrs. Boyle, formerly Helen Anna McDermott of Chicago, was convicted on a charge of aiding, assisting and abetting in the abduction of Willie Whitla of Sharon, Pa.

While it is not believed that either of them will be given the maximum sentence, both, it is said, will probably be sent to the penitentiary for a long term of years. Boyle is liable to life imprisonment and the maximum sentence in the case of the woman is twenty-five years.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

A sentence of three years in state prison was given John A. Doherty of Auburn, Me., for assault with intent with intent to kill upon Peter Fahey.

In a short time ground will be broken on the Newport, R. I., harbor front for a large naval hospital, for which more than $250,000 will be expended.

Five thousand New York policemen participated in the annual police parade and passed in review before Mayor McClellan and other city officials.

Joachim Andersen, the composer and conductor, died in a sanitorium near Copenhagen. He married Miss Sarah D. Watson of New York, who survives him.

A man who registered as O. D. Burke at a Boston hotel was found dead in his room. A medical examiner pronounced it a case of suicide by asphyxiation.

BIG POLICY ON BRESNAHAN

Robinson's Investment In Noted Catcher Reaches a Total of $75,000

St. Louis, May 10.—Stanley Robinson, owner of the St. Louis National baseball club, has taken out a $50,000 life insurance policy on his manager and leading catcher, Roger Bresnahan. The policy runs for five years and the annual premium is $1300.

Bresnahan's release cost Robinson four good players, valued at $50,000, when it was bought from the New Nork National team. He is under a three year contract to play for $25,000. This makes Robinson's investment $75,000 in Bresnahan.

ST. YVES CAPTURES MARATHON RACE

Has a Good Margin at End of Gruelling Contest

New York, May 10.—In a gruelling race, during which runner after runner collapsed only to stumble on again with almost superhuman effort to the end, Henri St. Yves, the stocky little French Marathon runner, took the measure of twelve sturdy competitors in an international Marathon held at the polo grounds and romped home a winner by the handsome margin of five-sixths of a mile.

John Svanberg of Sweden finished second after one of the plackiest efforts ever witnessed on the running track, and Ted Crook, an unknown runner from New England, staggered over the tape in third place, thus earning a measure of glory for America.

The purse was $10,000, $5000 to first; $2000 to second, $1200 to third, etc. St. Yves' time was 2:44:05; second, John Svanberg, Sweden, time 2:50:54; third, Ted Crook, United States, 2:52:10; fourth, Fred Simpson, American Indian, 2:54:13; fifth, Fred Appleby, England, 2:56:17; sixth, Dorando Pietri, 2:58:19; seventh, Edouard Cibot, France, 3.03.25.

Hall Put Out of Business

Paris, May 10.—Sandy Ferguson of Boston made his first appearance in Paris, meeting Herbert Hall of London in a fight which lasted less than two minutes. # TO CROSS OCEAN IN A BALLOON

Feat Will Be Attempted by Professor Clayton

MAY BEAT GREAT LINERS

Expects to Reach Europe In Three or Four Days by Utilizing Planetary Current Which Flows Constantly Eastward—Will Acquire Data by First Making Overland Voyage From Pacific to Atlantic

Boston, May 10.—A balloon trip over the Atlantic from Boston to Europe is planned by Henry H. Clayton, who recently resigned as meteorologist at the Blue Hill observatory after sixteen years of study of the direction and velocity of wind currents.

Professor Clayton believes he can accomplish the feat of crossing the Atlantic by taking advantage of an upper air current or planetary current which his experiments have shown flows constantly eastward at the height of two miles above the earth. He declares he can make the distance of 3000 miles easily in three or four days, and that a dependable traveling schedule could even be made out in advance.

As a sort of preliminary test of the possibilities of the trip, Clayton is now making plans for an air voyage from San Francisco to the Atlantic coast. He would have a balloon of special make, with a capacity of 200,000 cubic feet, double the size of any gas bag now in use.

With the balloon little more than half filled with hydrogen gas at the start, so as to allow for expansion as the balloon arises, he would plan to go up to a height of three and one-half miles and then drop out sand ballast to offset the leakage of gas as the big bag blows along in the easterly current. There would be lifting power sufficient to carry two men in the car, with such scientific instruments and provisions as might be required.

With the overland journey accomplished, Clayton thinks sufficient data will have been acquired to make the crossing of the Atlantic a simple matter. The same balloon refilled with gas would be used, but to prepare for contingencies, the car would be made in the form of a boat, lightly constructed and equipped with a small sail, so that if it became necessary to descend over the water the boat might be floated.

Professor Clayton believes that air travel is practical and that airships are bound to supersede railroad trains and steamships.

STRIKE LEADERS HESITATE

Not Quite Prepared to Meet Firm Attitude of French Government

Paris, May 10.—Conditions are rather favorable for the government in its controversy with the postal employes and it is not likely that a strike will be declared for the present. The government's firmness has made a deep impression on the rank and file, and the leaders of the strike movement may conclude to postpone the battle until they are better organized and prepared for what would prove to be a hard struggle.

Various unions have called a meeting for Wednesday to decide what steps shall be taken to help the postal employes in case of strike, to counterbalance the aid offered to the government by merchants and employers in general.

RESCUED UNINJURED

Two Miners Entombed Thirty-Six Hours by Fall of Rock

Pottsville, Pa., May 10.—Imprisoned by a fall of top rock for thirty-six hours, Thomas Basavage and John Masters, miners employed at the Morea colliery, were rescued uninjured by a big force of workmen who had been engaged in the dangerous task of saving them.

The men were imprisoned for ten hours before their condition became known. They saved themselves from being crushed to death by improvised props made out of their picks and shovels.

Two Jailbirds Escape

Alfred, Me., May 10.—Two "trusty" prisoners at the York county jail, Freeman Gireau and Albert Tredeau, escaped Saturday. While at work in the kitchen they made their way to the cellar beneath it, and got free by forcing an outer door. Both men were serving terms for larceny.

AGAIN IN SHAH'S FAVOR

Former Premier Who Fled From Persia Is to Resume His Post

Teheran, May 10.—At the shah's request Said Ed Dowleh, who recently was dismissed from the office of foreign minister, has formed a liberal cabinet. He will resume his former post, while Nasmir el Mulk, now a refugee in Europe, will become premier.

Nasir el Mulk was premier in 1907, but was ousted through popular demonstrations against the delay in the execution of soldiers who murdered two shopkeepers. The cabinet resigned at the height of the disorders and the shah ordered the arrest of the premier, who fled from the city.

The shah has signed two proclamations, one announcing the resumption of the constitution and the other granting political amnesty. Both of these concessions had for a long time been demanded by the diplomatic representatives of Great Britain and Russia.

TRUST COMPANY ENJOINED

Bank Examiner Makes Complaint Against Maine Institution

Augusta, Me., May 10.—An injunction has been issued by Associate Justice Spear of the supreme judicial court, restraining the Waterville Trust company from receiving or paying deposits pending an investigation. The complaint was made by State Bank Examiner Skelton and papers were served on the bank officials at Waterville this morning. The company maintains branches at Dexter, Newport, Hartland and Corinna, and these are included in the court order.

In his complaint Skelton says that he is of the opinion that the company's condition "is such as to render its further proceedings hazardous to the public and to those having deposits in its custody."

The company started doing business in 1893.

NOTHING TO SAY ABOUT JORDAN

Violence Displayed by Juror White Has Subsided

Waorcester, Mass., May 10.—Apparently reconciled to his position, Willis White of Maynard, the Jordan juror, shows few signs of the violence which accompanied his transfer to the Worcester Insane asylum Saturday. Pacing his cell, he mutters in an irrational manner on random subjects.

His remarks, according to the asylum attendants, have not yet included the name of Chester S. Jordan, who on last Tuesday was convicted of the murder of his wife by twelve jurors, of whom White was one.

It is understood that White's insanity is to form the basis of an appeal for a new trial for Jordan.

SUMMING UP BEGINS

Verdict In the Case of Captain Hains Expected by Tomorrow Night

Flushing, N. Y., May 10.—The summing up for the defense in the case of Peter C. Hains, Jr., whose trial here for the killing of William E. Annis is drawing to a close, was begun this morning by John F. McIntyre, chief counsel for the defense, who presented to the jury the plea of insanity on which the friends and relatives of the captain base their hope of acquittal.

Provided there is no hitch in the proceedings, a verdict deciding the fate of Hains is expected by Tuesday night.

HAD REAL GOLD BRICK

Negro Employe of Mint Confesses to Having Stolen It

New Orleans, May 10.—A daring and unusual offense against the federal government was revealed by the confession of Lorenzo D. Cunningham, a negro employe of the United States mint here, who was arrested as he was exhibiting a real gold brick of comparatively small size to members of his race.

Cunningham signed an admission that he stole the gold in granulated form from the separating division of the mint and then moulded it into the oval shape in which it was found. It is valued at about $300.

BOSTON LEARNING NEW ENGLAND

The tour of the Boston business men through southeastern New Hampshire and a considerable portion if Maine is receiving a great deal of attention from the Boston papers. They went with the idea of instructing. They returned with the wholesome knowledge that they had been learners.

All New England—except the western portion—has been to Boston and is fairly well acquainted in that city—despite the intricacies of its streets Boston does not know New England.

The Bostonians began to learn at the very first stop—when they discovered that Portsmouth has a harbor and a navy yard superior to what is at their own city.

They kept on learning at every place they stopped in Maine.

At Bangor they received one of the severest shocks of all, just before they started on the homeward ride. The head of the great Maine electric railway systems, with lines in eight counties, administered it at the meeting in city hall. He told them of the vast undeveloped water power in New England, and of the expending of ten million dolars in recent development. Then he told them how Boston's financiers hunted the stock markets and the western states and even foreign lands for investments and refused to investigate when asked to spend money on that electrical development in Maine. New York financiers investigated and hold the securities of the electric concerns, large and small, east of Portland.

They went for the purpose of inducing the rest of New England to co-operate with Boston. They learned that what is needed is for Boston to take an interest in being helpful to the rest of New England.

May all New England reap a benefit from Boston's acquirement of that knowledge.

NEW HAMPSHIRE WAR PORTRAITS

State Commission Trying to Gather Them for Future Generations

Francis H. Buffum of Winchester, Senator John A. Edgerly of Tuftonborough, Senator Benjamin F. Greer of Goffstown, George D. Rand of Chester and Charles Door of Raymond, the committee appointed under a joint resolution enacted by the legislature to gather, arrange and prepare for preservation and exhibition the war portraits of the distinguished sons of New Hampshire who rendered gallant and meritorious services in the war of the rebellion, together with flags, trophies and material souvenirs, have issued the following circular:

What is to become of the portraits trophies, mementos and other treasures which have accumulated in the halls of the Grand Army of the Republic during the past forty years? The former mild interest in this query is becoming intensified as we note the approaching end of this veteran organization, and a decisive answer is becoming imperative. These treasures, with those in other repositories, represent incalculable values in patriotic devotion, heroic sacrifice and unsurpassed achievements. What a pity to see these mementos scattered and wasted, as surely they will be save for some special and prompt provision.

Such a provision is aassured in the recent admirable action of the general court by which a joint committee is empowered to "gather, arrange and prepare for preservation and exhibition the war portraits of the distinguished sons of New Hampshire who rendered gallant and meritorious services in the war of the rebellion together with flags, trophies and martial souvenirs." The committee is greatly encouraged in the outstart by the attitude of Governor Quinby, who has given aassurance of his hearty co-operation and of his purpose to secure for the use of his committee as a patriotic portrait gallery and museum an ample and impresive space in the new capitol.

The committee enters upon a delicate and laborious task, not to be completed in a hurry. We call for the hearty and discriminating co-operation of all veterans organizatons as well as all patriotic citizents who chesish tender memories of the great war—to the end that what is best worh preserving among the countless delics of the rebellion may find safe and worthy recognition in the fittest place for their preservation.

Portraits are of the first importance. There are now, in the state house, a few fine portraits of eminent New Hampshire soldiers but this committe is not dealing with famous men merely, nor will rank in the army be overemphasized in the coming collection. It is not intended to attempt any general collection of war portraits, but there must be a long roll of New Hampshire boys who "rendered gallant and meritorious services" in the military meaning of the terms, and we want the war portraits of all such men as perpetual reminders of what the Granite state is, when loyalty speaks. This committee must depend upon the friends of these soldiers for the portraits desired and upon all the war orgaanizations of the state for a list of the deserving ones.

We have now at hand several hundred portraits and war scenes. These will be arranged and the appropriate legend attached to each. Facilities for procuring desired portraits are disappearing every day, and in many cases prompt action is essential. We ask all interested in this purpose to put themselves in communication with some member of this committee and so enable us to do this work thoroughly and do it well.

APPOINTED LIEUTENANT

Mr. Isreal H. Washburn on Saturday received his commission as second Lieutenant of the First Company New Hampshire Coast Artillery. Lieut. Washburn formerly held a similar commission with this company when it was Company B. N. H. N. G., but he was some time ago appointed regimental quartermaster of the Second Regiment, N. H. N. G., and by the recent reorganization of the State militia, lost his office. Under that commission he has the rank of Captain. He is thoroughly familiar with his duties and is a good officer and the company is fortunate in getting his services. The officers of the company now are: Captain, Chauncy B. Hoyt; First Lieut., Fred T. Harriman; Second Lieut., Isreal H. Washburn.

DON'T GROW OLD

Keep Your Hair Bright and Luxuriant and Stay Young

Yes, Parisian Sage, the most invigorating hair restorer, grows hair: the women of America, who have luxuriant hair, know it does and that is why thousands of attractive women throughout the land are regularly using it.

For years this almost marvelous grower of lustrous and beautiful hair was confined to the elite of Europe and New York City, but about two years ago it was given to a select list of druggists, and today can be obtained in any city or town in America where society women of refinement dwell.

Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair tonic in the world. It makes the hair soft, lastrous and luxuriant in a few days. It is perfumed most daintily and is not sticky or greasy. It stops falling hair, cures dandruff and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

This is what Mrs. Elizabeth E. Anderson of Mechanicsburg, Pa. writes:

"I had given up hope of ever being sured of dandruff, when I purchased a bottle of Parisian Sage. It has entirely removed the dandruff, and has started a growth of new hair, and all this after having been troubled for 15 years. I cheerfully recommend Parisian Sage." Goodwin E. Philbrick is the regularly appointed agent in Portsmouth for Parisian Sage, and he will sell you a large bottle under a rigid guarantee for 50 cents.

A larger bottle of better tonic that's what you get when you lay down a half dollar for a bottle of Parisian Sage. The girl with the Auburn hair is an every package and bottle.

Remedies for Fire Losses

Fires in the United States during the past year cost at the rate of one and one-quarter millions of dollars a day, or a loss in the year averaging five dollars to every man, woman and child in the country. That is a burden and responsibility literally thrust upon the individual mostly as the result of carelessness, where it is not crime.

The estimate is based upon statistics collected from all available sources for the information of the Government. The destruction of property by fire has been more than one-fourth the value of the new buildings erected in the same time, and while insurance has had the effect of reducing actual losses to the individual owners of burned structures, the actual loss to the whole country has not been affected by the payments of insurance.

This estimate of loss, however, includes the cost of maintaining fire departments and all that is involved in the necessity of fighting fire.

The amount of property destroyed was nearly $300,000,000 in value an increase of about $50,000,000 over the losses during the year 1907.

Combustible material used in buildings is the chief cause of the great waste. In buildings are stone, the fire losses do not approach those in this country. In 1907, out of losses aggregating $225,000,000, $148,000,000 was sustained in frame buildings, and but $68,000,000 in brick, stone and iron structures.

GREATER USE OF STONE AND CLAY PRODUCTS, AND THE MOST RESTRICTED USE OF WOOD ARE THE REMEDIES PROPOSED FOR EXISTING CONDITIONS.

An economic effect of this would be to reduce the demand for lumber, and thus relieve the pressure upon the already depleted forests of the nation, and develop other resources with which the country is well supplied, besides cutting down the ravages of the fire fiend.

Roosevelt Gave Picture to Exeter Man

Business Is Picking up At the Machine Works

Exeter, May 10.

Charles E. Atwood has received from John Woodbury, secretary of the class of 1889 at Harvard, an excellent portrait of former President Roosevelt, bearing his autograph. A portrait has been sent to all members of Roosevelt's class at Harvard. Mr. Atwood bears the distinction of being the only member of the class now in the state. The portrait was also accompanied with an anniversary poem read at the twenty-fifth anniversary of the class.

Business at the Exeter Machine works has recently revived by several orders which have lately been received. The company is now completing a cylinder head for the Rockingham Light and Power company of Portsmouth. The head is a ponderous piece of filling.

The Christian fraternity at the academy was addressed on Sunday evening by Dr. Langdon C. Stewardson, president of Hobart college of Geneva, N. Y. The academy quartet rendered music. A large audience greeted the speaker. It was Dr. Stewardson's first visit to this town and his visit was much appreciated from the fact that he came so far to address the students. He was a forceful and interesting speaker.

The losses by last week's fire at the Goodwin block have been adjusted for $3675.

The First Parish circle will hold its annual meeting on Thursday afternoon. After the business session Miss Ethel F. Littlefield of the seminary will gove "Some Observations of English Life."

The home team defeated Exeter Athletic Association in a loosely played game at Newmarket Mills by a score of 4 to 3.

In a meet held under ideal weather conditions, the track team of the Phillips-Exeter Academy defeated the Harvard frsehman team by a score of 61 1-2 to 46 1-2 in the second annual dual meet held here on Saturday. Three school records were broken and one was tied. Fred Burns, former Boston Latin sprinter, was the star of the meet, winning two firsts. He tied the record of the century sprint, covering the dictance in 10 flat, and 1-5 of a second, winning it in the fast time of 22 1-5s. W. J. Bingham sprang a surprise on the followers of the Crimson when he defeated Captain Fernald of the freshman team in the half mile race by a good three yards, winning it in 2m 1-5s, clipping 3-5s off the record held by W. H. McVicar This race furnished the most excitement of the afternoon. C. F. Murray, after ticing with Torrey of the Harvard team for first place in the pole vault at 10 ft 8in, broke the schol record by going over the bar at 11 ft in a trial later. The Academy boys made a clean sweep of the shot put event, which Guthrie won handily with a put of 39 ft 2 in.

The Harvard freshmen got next to the Exeter baseball nine on Saturday afternoon on Soldiers' field, Cambridge, and took the schoolboys into camp 4 to 2, winning on the errors of their opponents. Bartholf, the Exeter tosser, pitched good ball, allowing but five hits, well scattered, and with the proper kind of support would have won his game. But his team went up in the air the first inning and made several bad errors, which meant runs to the freshmen sufficient to win the game.

Baseball games scheduled for this week are St. Anselm's college of Manchester on Wednesday and Williston seminary on Saturday.

Mrs. H. E. Works of San Jose, Calif. formerly of Portsmouth, has been visiting her neice, Mrs. Nathan L. Blabon of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. John T. Larrabee, formerly of Portsmouth, now located in Corona, Riverside County, Calif. Mrs. Works' visit to the family of Mr. Larrabee was in the nature of a great surprise as they had not met in twenty years. Mrs. Works reports a most delightful visit, filled with many tender and touching memories of by-gone days. Mrs. Works anticipates revisiting her old home in the near future.

Miss Blanche Bell, who left here on Dec. 6 for a sojourn of several months in Campbell, Calif., has improved very much in health and is charmed with the country. She plans to see Portsmouth during the coming summer. She is staying with her sister, Mrs. Charles Berry, at Campbell.

PORTSMOUTH REPRESENTED

At Unveiling of Memorial to Admiral Winslow

In memory of Admiral John A. Winslow, who commanded the U. S. S. Kearsarge in her gallant fight with the Alabama, a bas relief of the admiral was unveiled on Saturday, in the memorial hall at the Massachusetts state house, Boston.

The unveiling was carried out by Miss Catherine Rickerson, niece of Councillor Brightman of New Bedford.

Councillor Steward W. Jones of Newton made the presentation and Governor Draper, in behalf of the state, accepted the same.

In the chamber, Capt. Herbert Winslow, the admiral's son, sat near the platform. Several veterans of the Kearsarge were present, including John J. McAleer of Cambridge, Peter V. Moody of Dorchester, Austin Quinby of Salem, H. S. Hobson of Palmer, the father of Representative Ernest Hobson of Palmer, who introduced in the legislature the resolution providing for the bas relief; Charles A. Poole of Waltham, John F. Bickford of Gloucester, Patrick McKeever of Malden, Martin Hoyt of Portsmouth, and George Harrison of the Charlestown navy yard.

Other prominent persous present were Lieutenant Governor Frothingham, Ex-Governor Guild, Speaker Walker of the house, and State Treasurer Stevens, besides the governor's staff and members of the executive council.

It will be remembered that this famous frigate, which brought history to the wooden navy, was built at Portsmouth navy yard in ninety days and her crew was composed of many New Hampshire men.

Portsmouth had many sailors among the crew, including Connor, T. W. Priest, J. Wesley Young, William H. Y. Evans, Martin Hoyt and Thomas Salmon. Of this number only Messrs. Evans and Hoyt survive, of the Portsmouth boys. The first named is now living at Gilmanton, and Mr. Hoyt resides in this city.

INSURE YOUR COMPLEXION.

It is easily done. Winter winds bring out all the imperfections of the skin. A clear, transparent complexion is the pride and delight of all women. In order to have this, it is necessary to put the skin in a healthy condition to repel the ravages caused by the chilling, cutting blasts of such winters as we are subject to in this climate. No woman can help feeling ill at ease when in company, when she feels that the blemishes on her face may be commented upon by her friends, and it does not help matters any when she looks in a mirror and sees her face as others see it. Many resort to the massage treatment, which only makes the flesh soft and flabby and increases the growth of a fine uzzy hair; others use beauty creams, which clog the pores of the skin, preventing them from doing their work properly, thereby producing pimples, blackheads, blotches, etc. The One Night cures cannot be reliable. Common sense teaches that you cannot eradicate from the flesh in one night a disease that has been gaining ground steadily for months. Nothing should be used on the face of an oily or greasy nature, they may perhaps afford temporary relief, but eventually make the skin dry, hard and liable to crack. This can be easily avoided by using the following prescription which will positively remove pimples, blackheads, eczema, blotches, sunburns, chapped hands, lips and face, and all eruption of the skin, and really produces what a woman loves best a soft, clear and transparent complexion. This can be secured by using the following prescription, which can be procured at any Drug Store for a small amount and is well worth trying. Clearola one-half ounce, Ether one ounce, Alcohol seven ounces, mix and apply twice a day (only night and morning) allowing to remain on the parts affected as long as possible. Do not use any soap in washing, instead use a little oatmeal tied up in a cheese cloth bag, and luke warm water. If you are afflicted with this disagreeable disease, do not fail to try it.

RAILROAD WRECK SERMON

Rev. Frank H. Gardner at the Court street Christian church on Sunday preached on "What I Saw at the Railroad Wreck." He took up the topic of social conditions and expressed the opinion that a man who has been on duty twelve hours a day seven days in the week, ought not to be held responsible for mistakes.

The sermon took up the questions of labor and remuneration and of our responsibility as "our brother's keeper."

WITH THE POLICE

A Busy Saturday Night and Sunday Place Raided on Russell Street and One Arrest Made

Saturday night there were two for assault, three drunks, four lodgers and one held for trial on the police blotter. The two for assault were two marines who got in a clinch on Market street and were mixing it up lively when the police interfered. One was Patrick Downing who was arrested here some time ago for snatching a pocketbook and was held at the jail for the Grand jury, but no indictment was returned and he was released and turned over to the navy yard. Two marines who were witnesses were arrested but on promising to appear this morning for court were released.

Sunday night there were three drunks, one charged with keeping liquor for sale without state license, and one lodger. In addition the drunks of the night before and the two marines were held over.

Alex Smith was charged with selling liquor on Sunday. He was arrested as a result of a raid made on Sunday by Marshall Entwistle and Officer Shannon and in Smith's place on Russell street, enough evidence of sale was secured to cause his arrest. The Sunday drunks were all local talent.

HOME, NOT A HOUSE

A PLACE REVEALING SOMETHING OF ITS INMATES.

It Ought Not To Be Conducted Like a Public Institution—Something About First Wife's Portrait Again —Children's Habits.

If I had married a man who had been married before, I should have made it a point of honor to say in the beginning, "I am going to change everything in the house." Personally, I can imagine nothing so dragging as to uphold continually the remembrance of another. But mind, in the making of a home, this may be carried too far in the opposite direction.

I knew a woman who became her husband's second wife. His first wife had been a great beauty; the second was extremely plain, but a woman of brilliant intellect. The only sister of her husband did not like her, and she contrived to so work upon the feelings of the unfortunate living wife by means of the incomparable beauty of the dead one, that life for her was made little short of that state which we call "hell." Then the sound common-sense of the husband came into play, and he delivered himself of a few short, sharp sentences which settled the question once and for all.

"I married my first wife, and I loved her," he said. "I had the misfortune to lose her. I met you and I loved you. The last thing that my dead wife would wish, if she could express an opinion, would be that her remembrance and her portrait should make my living wife wretched. I shall put away the portrait; and you, my sister, who have made me wretched, will go out of my life now, for always."

To that, I believed I am right in saying, he held to the end of his life. For some years the portrait of the dead wife was never seen; but the second wife some ten or twelve years later, took the opportunity when they were moving house to tell her husband that she had no longer any feeling such as had once moved her, and the long-hidden portrait was brought to light again and hung in a place of honor in the new drawing room.

This house was essentially a home and for many years this husband and wife lived in perfect peace and amity.

The difference between a house and a home is often in matters so trifling as to be almost inexplicable. A new parlormaid will transform your own drawing-room until you hardly know it yourself. And, let me tell you that is one of the disadvantages of keeping your servants a long time—you have so much to explain and to show when you do change. I have just lost a parlormaid of three and a half years' standing. The other day I said to my new one, "Come with me, and I will show you how I like my drawing-room. "See," I said, "as you have arranged it, it might be the drawing-room of a clean lodging-house. Now just notice how I put things, and see what a difference a few touches will make."

In truth, when I had given those few touches the difference was startling even to myself. The hand which did not understand my ways, which did not possess my faculty for making a home, had transformed my dainty sitting-room out of all likeness to itself. Perhaps a matter of temperament.

There can be no home in the house of a woman who shuts off her fires on the first of April, and never permits one to be lighted again outside the kitchen till the first of November. That house is not a home it's a prison or a charitable institution.

In my opinion a house is never a home unless it contains evidences of the pursuits of its inmates.

At present I myself am under the thrall of a small person who is all pursuit, who flits from one hobby to another with a rapidity which makes my middle-aged brain worn and weary. Now it is painting; half an hour ago it was pastels; this afternoon it may be cutting out such advertisements as take her fancy in order to make a scrapbook on quite a new plan. Her doll's house takes one corner of my study, her plants are on almost every window-ledge. She collects lead-soldiers and price marks of articles bought in shops; she has the whole scheme of pink books from the very beginning, and a small collection of pictures of which her favorite is Millet's "Angelus," which hangs over her bed. This bed-room is a perfect museum.

Personally, I do not think there can be any home without animals. Everybody is not blessed with children, who go far to make houses into homes, but everybody can have a dog or a cat, or both. But the house where the dog is never allowed to sit on a chair, and where the cat does not look for anything outside the kitchen—well, I think that house is seldom a home. It is all a matter of temperament. Fresh blooming flowers and growing plants, children who are frank and free and fearless animals who bask and join in the family life, all these things combine to make a home. And there is something outside of all these, which I think only lies in the hand of the house mistress—that power to invest mere objects with a certain atmosphere and a certain charm.

But, as I have already said, it is mostly a matter of temperament.

STYLISH TOP GARMENTS.

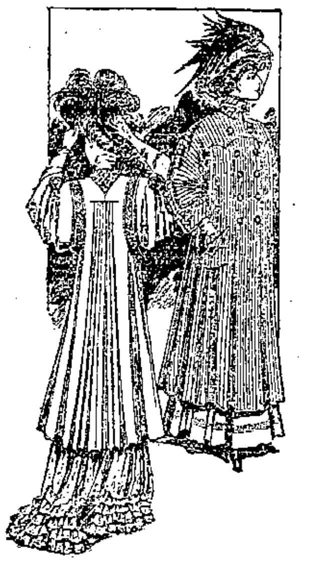
Models of the Loose Sleeve Variety With Silk Braid and Collar.

Among the first advance models of the season are coats. An excellent idea of what is going to be the style in top garments may be gained from these models. The first is contrived of satin finished cloth trimmed with silk braid and appliques of the same trimming. The wide, loose sleeves of the cloth are outlined about the armholes with silk braid and the collar is cut away only to be filled in again with embroidered medallions.

Although the coat is very full and graceful, it is made almost semi-fitting about the shoulders where the fulness is laid in side plaits back and front, hung from an Empire yoke simply stitched.



The second model is charming in striped serge trimmed with big buttons of plain silk. It is distinguished by a seamless shoulder yoke, which is cut in one with the three-quarter sleeve. The collar is quite high and close-fitting, being finished with stitchings of serge and a large button.

The pockets are also self-trimmed, supplemented by buttons. It would seem that pockets are to be important features. General outlines will be loose and flowing, and although decorations are in most instances simple, they will be applied with an artistic chic that will make the garments they decorate expensive.

GUIDES TO HEALTH.

The skin, especially that of the face, should be treated as the finest china, tenderly and delicately.

Shoes that are too large sometimes slip and cause the heel to blister. To prevent this fit the heel of the shoe with a piece of velvet.

After the use of a mutsard poultice on any part of the body rub that part with camphorated oil to avoid the possibility of taking cold.

You can make your eyebrows thicker by applying a grower made by combining two ounces of red vaseline, one-eighth ounce of the tinct. the oil of rosemary and fifteen drops of the oil of lavender

Laneline should never be used alone on the face. When combined with white wax and spermaceti it is a most excellent tissue builder and eradicator of wrinkles. It will not, when so combined, cause a growth of hair on the face.

The frequency of shampooing must be regulated to a certain extent by the character of the hair and the sort of atmosphere to which it is exposed. Very oily hair should be washed every fortnight. The same thing may be said of hair that is filled with dandruff. In some cases a weekly cleaning is necessary. When eggs are used there is no possible chance of any harm being done. Eggs themselves are a tonic to the growth.

Beauty in Japan.

Beauty from a Japanese standpoint, consists of a long oval face, regular features, almond-shaped eyes sloping slightly upward, a high, narrow forehead, and abundance of smooth black hair.

The movements of Japanese women are graceful, although the style of their dress prevents them from walking with ease; their feet and hands are delicately formed, and their manners unquestiinably charming.

They take little or no exercise, and one wonders sometimes how there seems so little to be done in a Japanese house. To begin with, there are no regular meals. The shops near at hand supply daily numberless dishes, which seem to be eaten at all hours of the day and night—a few bites at a time—with those impossible little chopsticks. Very little is kept in the larder, except some slices of daikon, fermented turnip, some rice and sweet biscuits. Eggs are cheap and plentiful; bread is never used, so there is no necessity for an oven. The great standby is tea.

A Japanese lady is seldom seen in her home without the quaint little tea tray by her side, and the inevitable pipe, containing one whiff of tobacco, which is in constant requisition.

DANGER IN ORIENTAL RUGS

Antiques and Near Antiques May Both Be the Vehicle for Germs.

Dr. Remlinger, head of the Pasteur Institute in Constantinople, has been making an investigation of Oriental rugs and carpets and has published a summary of his results in the German Journal of General and Applied Hygiene. He finds that the carpets of the better class, the highly prized antiques or near antiques, constitute a serious menace to health unless they are put through a radical cleansing and disinfecting process.

The real antiques which have been in use in Oriental houses or bazaars for years or generations have been exposed to the contagion of countless disease germs. Their texture fits them in a peculiar way to gather and retain these indefinitely.

These genuine antiques are far less objectionable than the counterfeit antiques which have been artifically mellowed. One of the least objectionable methods used to soften the colors in the degree that the European and American market calls for is to bury the carpets in trenches with quantities of stable refuse. When taken up they are little likely to receive a thorough cleansing.

Sometimes the carpets are laid down in frequented places to be walked on, thus accumulating the bacteria laden dust of the Eastern city streets. Or a rug may be lent to a beggar or street vender, who sits on it and sleeps in it until it acquires the semblance of age.

Dr. Remlinger points out that tuberculosis, throat diseases and catarrh are prevalent in the rug and carpet trade. He is of opinion that they are contracted from handling the fabrics and breathing the air in which they are opened and agitated as they are shown to customers. The doctor also expresses the opinion that some otherwise unaccountable outbreaks of tropical enteric disorders that have taken place in Paris were due to infecton from Oriental rugs.

The most thorough and efficient process of cleansing would be disinfection by steam. This could do no harm to the rugs, and it as an absolutely certain method of killing bacteria. He thinks that it should be generally adopted as a preliminary to the importation of Eastern fabrics into any Occidental country.

Child's Stylish Cuts

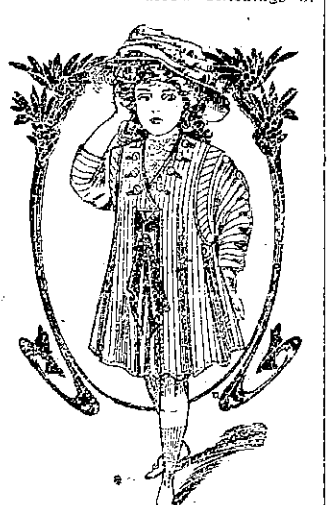
French Venetian cloth marked with a tiny black hairline is used in the development of the coat sketched here. It is seamless, but the oddly shaped sleeves have an armhole effect outlined with bias folds of the material and are trimmed with large silk buttons aranged down the centre

The neck is cut in V shape and outlined with narrow stitchings of silk soutache and buttons. A suggestion of an Empire vest is shown in the way the coat fastens above the sailor tie of soft spotted silk. For wee small girls coats are to be very short, with their fullness supplied by a circular flare The knee length will obtain and nothing is really prettier for little girls



The hat finishing this little outfit is of soft white crinoline trimmed with soft folds of silk veiled with maline

The Cutting of Bread for Sandwiches

Bread for making sandwiches should not be too coarse grained. It will fall apart and refuse to take the butter or keep its shape if it is of this description. Close grained white bread of the opposite type slices beautifully and can be trimmed into any desired shape or size. Always trim off the crusts. Use the very sharpest knife you have when slicing and cut those slices as thin as you can without having them fall apart. Never use fresh bread. It should be easily one day old to be firm and fit. Do not try to spread butter when it is very hard. This tears up the bread. A little heating will make it work easier. Use a scant amount on the slices and the very choisest.

When making cold chicken sandwiches the meat should be finely chopped. Tender celery stalks, salt and pepper and a small quantity of butter form a seasoning. Turkey is arranged the same way. When veal is minced for sandwiches the flavor is decidedly improved by a little lemon juice. Ham when chopped fine is even better than sliced if it has been helped out by the use of a French mustard mixed with the chopped meat.

HER MORNING TOILET

EMPRESS OF CHINA IS ROUGED WITH GREAT CEREMONY.

Often Necessary To Paint and Powder Her Thrice Before the Imperial Ideal Is Reached—The Tedium Relieved By Song and Story.

The empress of China is rouged every morning regularly after breakfast until her cheeks flame delicately against the creamy composition with which the rest of her face has been coated. A huge mirror is then rolled to the couch upon which the source of all power in China reclines. Tsi Hsu studies the effects of the labors of her young ladies so critically that it is said to be necessary occasionally to rogue her twice or thrice before the technic of the operation quite realizes the imperial ideal. The monotony is made less tedious by song, the narration of court gossip and not infrequently application of her majesty's rattan cane to sensitive surfaces.

The pencilling of the eyebrows and eyelashes has had to be abandoned, if we may trust French sources of information, owing to the growing weakness of the old lady's sight. But the lips continue to be carmined. The slightly stubborn growth of hair on chin and upper lip is dealt with after the fashion of those Western artists who obliterate black eyes by the application of heavy paint.

A wig of extreme lightness, notwithstanding the suggestion of weight conveyed by its crown of black hair, parted centrally, is adjusted to the cranium. The false teeth are nicely established in the appropriate place, one of the most trying achievements of the whole toilet, evidently, as the chronic swelling of her majesty's lower jaw is rumored to be due to some painful experience with artificial dentition.

No attack of illness could be too severe to justify the slightest omission of cometical detail by the several ladies concerned with the empress dowager's toilet. Though Tsi Hsu be so ill that her day must be spent in bed, she is rouged, pencilled and massaged on the flat of her back. She emerges from her toilet, we are confidently informed by the French daily just referred to, looking "perfectly natural."

Her appearance, even in the severe stage of the recent paralytic spell, was that of the "blooming matron" in "an autumnal glory of enchanting womanhood." Our contemporary admits that to a critical Western eye the complexion of Tsi Hsu would seem "greenish." But that coloration renders a feminine cuticle all the more seductive to the Manchu eye, Tsi Hsu being Manchu herself to the tips of her extremely long finger nails.

Her majesty wears peculiarly contrived gloves in bed, not, as has been inferred, for the beautification of her supple, delicate hands, but for the preservation of that unparalled length to which her finger nails have attained. The nails will break at times, the phenomenon portending, in her majesty's opinion, a calamity to the country.

By the time the last dash of carmine in the Cupid's bow of her majesty's upper lip has been made appropriate to the charm of woman at 40, the enuchs have begun to admit the throngs into the hall of audience. They comprise usually the privileged ones of the court of Pekin a viceroy or two in favor, supporters of the four candidates for the post of heir apparent and some member of the diplomatic corps bearing a personal message from his sovereign. The progress of the imperial toilet is bulletined by the enuchs. The fate of a decree abolishing the opium traffic or the promulgation of an edict for which a whole province is waiting may depend upon the skill of the young lady with the rouge stick. Once the wig is adjusted and the empress has passed into the hall of audience—not to be confused with the small apartment in which the diplomatic corps is officially welcomed—the serious business of Tsi Hsu's day commences. It may be summed up in the word evasion. So dexterous has the aged woman become in the art to which her life has been given that it is a saying in some parts of Pekin that she has ceased to live, but is evading death.—Current Literature.

Steaming Plush and Velvet.

Take a bare ironing board, or even the leaf from an extension table if you do not mind scorching the under side. Put side by side on this one or two of the kitchen stove lids; they must be hot as an iron for ironing, or even hotter. Upon these lids lay several thicknesses of cotton cloth which you have previously wrung out in cold water. Have the cloth fairly wet, but not enough to drip. Lay the plush lightly over it (nap side up, of course), and if necessary brush gently with a bristle hat brush. Move your material quickly along. The nap, if there is any left, will stand up like magic. The plush, if damp when finished, can be thrown over the back of a chair near the stove until dry. Renew your lids and wet the cloth as often as needed to insure a good volume of steam. Breadths of velvet dresses can be beautifully restored in this way, and as the goods only lie lightly on the lids, no impression of their shape is left, and the work is fully equal to that of a professional.

JUST LIKE HIM.

The Bookkeeper Was Lost For Words to Express His Feelings.

In a banking office in New Orleans is an aged bookkeeper who began his connection with the business the day it was established.

As the years went by, the proprietor, who had started with little, but was extremely "close," amassed an enormous fortune. The bookkeeper piled up but a small amount of savings.

At last the twenty-fifth anniversary of the firm and of the bookkeeper's service came along. He remembered it, but thought no one else would. To his surprise, the proprietor spoke of it at once.

"Williams," he said, "do you know what day this is?"

"Our twenty-fifth anniversary, sir."

"It is, indeed, Williams. And now I have thought fit to commemorate the event, and I have put in this envelope for you a small gift to express my appreciation of your faithful service."

The bookkeeper, his hopes raised high, took the envelope from his employer and opened it. The "token" was a photograph of the employer.

"Well?" demanded the donor as the other hesitated. "What did you want to say about it?"

"It's just like you!" murmured the bookkeeper. "It's just like you!" —New Orleans Picayune.

Incorrigible.

Mrs. Nag—My husband is complaining again of your neglect of the children, Mary.

Mary—Oh! mum, I don't take any notice of him, for 'tis nature of him to fine fault. Ain't he for ever complainin' of you, mum?—Ex.

Wonderfully Productive Country.

"Eastern visitors to the west are generally prepared for any phenomenal showing in the line of agriculture, stock-raising and the like," says a Colorado man, "but once in a while they are taken by surprise," says Harper's Weekly.

"A New Hampshire man, who was spending his vacation on the ranch of a relative in Colorado went out one morning to inspect a large incubator in which the young chicks were hatching. In one corner of the incubator a neglected peachseed, encouraged by the warmth of the atmosphere, had burst, and a tiny sprout several inches long was growing out of it.

"'Suffering Caesar!' exclaimed the New Hampshire man, as this caught his eye, 'do you hatch out your peaches in this country?'"

How He Got Even.

The proprietors of two rival livery stables, situated alongside each other in a busy street, have been having a lively advertising duel lately.

The other week one of them stuck up on his office window a long strip of paper bearing the words:

"Our horses need no whip to make them go."

This bit of sarcasm naturally caused some amasement at the expense of the rival proprietor, but in less than an hour he neatly turned the tables by pasting the following retort on his own window:—

"True. The wind blows them along!"

His First Refusal.

A young gentleman who had not familiarized himself with the force of polite correspondence, and lacked the good sense to discover the form for himself, found it necessary to refuse an invitation. The Chicago News gives the note which he wrote:

"Mr. J. Henry Newton declines with pleasure Mrs. Raymond's invitation for the twenty-first, and thanks her extremely for having given him the opportunity to do so."

It Would Be Fine.

A lot of poor children were at Rockefeller's stock farm near Cleveland. He gave each of them some milk to drink, the product of a prize cow. "How do you like it?" he asked, when they had finished. "Gee, it's fine!" responded one little fellow, who added, after a thoughtful pause: "I wisht our milkman kept a cow!"—Puck.

He Wondered.

Tete de Veau—Did you ever wonder what you would do it you had Pierpont Morgan's income?

L'Oignon—No. But I've often wondered what Pierpont Morgan would do if he had mine.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Counted the Cost.

"Your temperature is pretty high, this morning," said the doctor, says an exchange. "I hope it's no higher than I can afford to have it, doctor," said the cautious patient.

ALLIGATOR CLAW FAD.

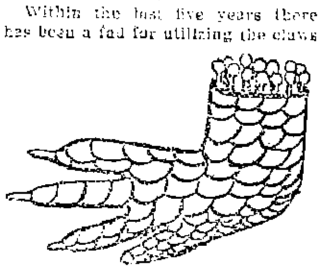
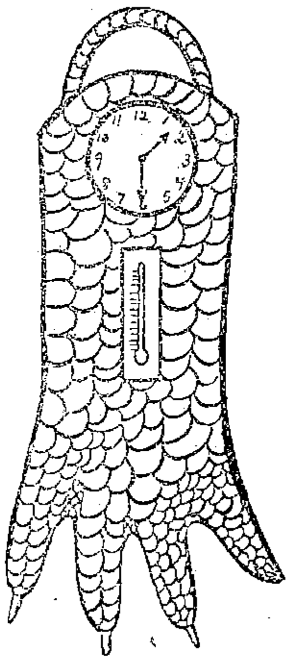
Quaint and Useful Articles Liked Especially by Men.

Within the last five years there has been a fad for utilizing the claws of alligators in little articles made from their hides.



One clever scheme is to build match safes from one of Bre'r 'Gator's extremeties. There's sandpaper on the bottom.



The clock and thermometer combination is another bit of attractive usefulness.

HOME COOKING.

Plain Fruit Punch.

One pint of lemon juice, 1 pint of orange juice, 1½ gallons of water; sugar to taste.

Strawberry Salad.

Choose the heart leaves of head lettuce, heap a few strawberries in each and dust them lightly with powdered sugar; lay a teaspoon of mayonnaise on each portion and serve cut lemons with them. Delicious for lunch.

Waldorf Salad.

One cup of sour apples, 1 cup celery, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ cup walnut meats broken in pieces; cut apples in thin slices, cut celery in small pieces, dust with salt and pepper, mix with mayonnaise or boiled dressing.

Delicious Cake.

One and one-half cups of white sugar, 1 small cup of butter, 1 cup of milk, 3 eggs, ½ teaspoon of soda, 1 teaspoon of cream of tarter, 3 cups of flour.

Beat butter and sugar together; add the yolks, then the beaten whites, last the milk.

Canned Cherries.

Pick over the cherries carefully to make sure there are no wormy ones. Allow 1 cup of sugar to each jar of fruit. Put the cherries and sugar in layers in the jars until nearly full. Arrange the jars in a boiler with straws or sticks in the bottom. Put water enough to come nearly to the top of the jars, but do not put on the rubbers. Let the water boil until the sugar in the jars has melted and formed a clear syrup. Meanwhile, have more syrup boiling in another pan, and when the fruit is ready take out the jars one at a time, fill with this syrup and seal quickly.

The Courteous Woman.

She is not the woman who has one tone of voice for her friends and associates and quite another for her servants and the tired people behind counters who wait upon her.

Nor is she the woman who bids visitors an affectionate farewell in one breath, and in the next expresses her thankfulness at their departure.

Certainly she is not he woman who discusses with one friend the follies or secrets of another.

A truly courteous woman indulges in none of the petty shams and deceptions which make life insincere. She has one gentle manner and voice for all, high or low; and she never demeans herself by personal comments behind people's back which could not be openly said in their presence.

So much a matter of gentle heart is genuine courtesy.

Care of the Hair.

There are three great secrets of success in keeping the hair beautiful.

Keep up the general health, eat properly, digest your food, exercise your muscles.

Attend scrupulously to the cleanliness of the hair, to its regular brushing and combing.

See that your scalp does not suffer from dampness and be sure that the skin at the roots of the hair receives plenty of air.

A LITTLE SERMON.

It Was Against His Principles to Work On the Sabbath.

Bishop Thomas Bowman, on the celebration at Orange of his ninetieth birthday, spoke wisely of religious toleration.

"The older one grows," said the famous Methodist bishop, "the more one disregards the little, unimportant, useless things that separate one denomination from another. One sees one's hand on the great things that bind all denominations together. And they who, neglecting the great [illegible], neglecting charity and uprightness, and honor, wrangle over small denominational differences, seem to an old man as absurd as the Taoist and the Shintoist.

"Perhaps you know the story.

"A Taoist—I think it was a Taoist—once fell down a well, and a Shintoist—or some such person—ran at full speed to his assistance.

"'Oh, brother,' cried the Shintoist, leaning over the well-curb, 'be of good cheer. A ladder is at hand, and I shall have you out in a jiffy.'

"The Taoist was paddling about in the dark down below, up to his chin in the icy water.

"'No, no,' he grunted, puffing painfully. 'Fetch no ladder, brother. I'll climb no ladder today, for this is Tuesday, the day consecrated by all true believers to the Most High.'

"Against, the Shintoist poured down prayers and arguments into the well; but prayers and arguments alike were of no avail with the devout Taoist. The other, obliged to leave the man to his fate, departed sadly shaking his head at the sound of the grunts, puffs and splashes which ascended from the blackness far below.

"The next morning the Shintoist returned to the well. He peered over curiously. Yes, the Taoist was still there. The noise of his struggles still rose up.

"'Ho, brother,' shouted the Shintoist, 'is all well with you below?'

"'All is well,' replied the Taoist, in a very weak voice; 'but I pray you, brother, fetch that ladder at once.'

"The Shintoist threw up his hands in shocked surprise.

"'Fetch a ladder today' he cried. 'Heaven forbid! Don't you know that this is Wednesday, the Shintoist Sabbath?'

"So saying, the Shintoist departed, leaving the Taoist blowing and splashing in the well."

Feminine Reasoning.

Husband (as they arrive at the station a minute too late)—If you hadn't taken so much time with your toilet, we shouldn't have been too late.

Wife—And if you hadn't made me run, we wouldn't have to wait so long for the next train!—Transatlantic Tales.

A Jolt for Him.

Miss Ellabelle Mae Doolittle, the Leesville poetess, effectively squelched a young man at a dance the other night, remarks the Denver Post. Miss Doolittle, when the fad first became fashionable, was operated on for appendicitis, and the young man knew this. In a waltz she had with him he said:

"Miss Doolittle, it seems to me you dance better since you had your appendix cut out."

"Is that so?" replied the great poetess.

"Yes," he said.

"Well," came from Miss Ellabella Mae, "why don't you have yours cut out?"

When She "Raised" Him.

According to the Watchword a young man who had not been married long, remarked at the dinner table the other day:

"My dear, I wish you could make bread such as mother used to make."

The bride smiled, and answered in a voice that did not tremble:

"Well, dear, I wish you could make the dough that father used to make."

The Usual Way.

"I recieved a lot of rejected manuscripts to-day," said Titmarsh.

"Did you?" replied his friend. "I had no idea you had an ambition to shine as an author."

"Not exactly that," said Titmarsh "You see, my girl and I quarreled, and she returned all my letters."—Answers.

In Trade.

Mr. Hans—Doc, I ain'd got much money. Vill you dake my bill out in drade?

Dr. Gans—Why, I might. What's your business?

"I'm der leader off her liddle German band. Ve'll play in front off your house effry efening."—Cleveland Leader.

FOLDING COT.

Occupies Very Little Space When Not in Use.

An excellent substitute for children's cots is the folding-bed attachment shown in the illustration invented by a South Dakota man. The child's cot invariably takes up a great deal of space. By providing this folding attachment the cot, when not in use can be pushed up against the bed, where it occupies a very small space. The construction is very simple, consisting of a lazy-tongs frame at top and bottom, supported on one end in the frame of the bed and on the other on posts. The lazy tongs are provided with small projections, which limit the closing movement and prevent the cot from collapsing when occupied.

Had Shelley Lived.

Great as is the poetry Shelly has left us I think it is not the prelude to what he might have done had he lived. He was coming daily to a riper, fuller life, to greater power, saner vision. His poetry was growing steadily clearer and more direct, steadily freer from needless preachments and boyish diffuseness. We can note this in "The Skylark" and "The West Wind," more especially do we note it in "The Cenci." Symonds calls this play the greatest English drama since Shakespeare; and Symonds was not given to reckless praise. It is not Shelly's greatest work, but it is the freest from his youthful faults, and gives better than anything else a vision of his coming maturity. If the vision had but become reality! Shelly was as complex a nature as Shakespeare, and needed as long to come to the fulness of his strength. Yet he died at 30, an age when the bard of Avon had but begun to build his fame. Had Shakespeare died at 30 what would he have left us? The blood-dripping nonsense of "Titus Andronicus," the splendid horror of "Richard III," the dainty music of "Midsummer Night's Dream," the undying pathos of "Romeo and Juliet." Much, indeed. But where would have been Hamlet, and Macbeth, and King Lear, and Othello, and Coriolanus, and Shylock, and Cleopatra, and Caesar? Set these by those and I think you have a fair measure of what that summer storm on the Ligurian coast cost the world. Had Shelly lived I doubt not we should have had works from his pen as much surpassing anything we now possess as Macbeth overtops Richard III. The music which made the charm of his earlier verse pulsed in double measure through his latest; music softer and fuller and less vexed by the turmoil of the world than ever before; and then, just as his greatness was ripening, the reaper came. —George L. Knapp in Lippincott's

The Corset.

"The whole essence of a successful appearance revolves around this special, though frequently neglected, little item," remarks a fashionable authority.

"The very cheap corset is an abomination, be the fibre what it may. A too slender form asks the assistance of a well-cut model to impart the necessary rounded curves while one blessed with too liberal an allowance of adipose tissue seeks the service of a shape so maneuvered as to lend slimness and suppleness to an otherwise shapeless waist.

"Now a good corset is quite capable of circumventing any ordinary defect of a figure modern knowledge moreover, insisting that health and hygiene shall be also taken into strict account. There is no reason whatever for a corset to cause undue pressure anywhere, but the now-decreed outline demands a certain shapeliness of form while still maintaining the approved straight front.

A Queen's Precept.

Queen Alexandra takes womanly pleasure in feminine and domestic accomplishments, and is deeply interested in all matters that affect the health and well-being of the middle and lower classes. Her tastes, like those of the King are exceedingly simple, and she believes that every person in the ordinary walks of life should know how to cook a dinner and manage a baby.

The Queen has always been a lover of home and family; her devotion to her late father is a matter of history, and her constant attachment to brothers and sisters is equally well known. It follows naturally that her interests are closely bound up with those of her brother, King George of Greece, about whom we have recently heard so much in connection with the current growing industry of his gallant little country.

WOMAN'S WILES.

She Proved to Her Husband She Was An Object of Admiration.

As a married couple were walking down one of the main thoroughfares of a city the husband noted the attention which other women obtained from passers-by, and remarked to his better half:

"Folks never look at you. I wish I had married some one better looking."

The woman tartly replied: "It's your fault. Do you think a man will stare at me when you're walking with me? You step behind and see whether men don't look at me."

The husband hung back about a dozen yards, and for the length of the street was surprised to see every man his wife passed stare hard at her and even turn around and look after her.

"Sure, lassie!" he exclaimed, as he rejoined her. "I was wrong, and take it back. I'll never say aught about your looks again."

The wife had made a face at every man she met.

Dr. Patton's Argument.

Former President Patton, of Princeton University, recently delivered a sermon, his subject being "Faith." He spoke of the blind faith of the client who puts himself at the mercy of a lawyer in preparing action for trial, and of the confidence of the sick in entrusting themselves to the physician.

"A case of blind faith," said the clergyman: "The doctor writes out a prescription. Oftener than not you cannot read it; you don't know what it is. He tells you to take it. 'Yours not to reason why, yours but to do and die.'"

Whether or not Dr. Patton meant it there was a distinct ripple throughout the congregation.—Saturday Evening Post.

What He Had Struck.

One day in Washington recently a group of politicians were talking, when "Uncle Joe" Cannon was reminded of a story:

"There was a friend of mine in Ohio," said he, "who once joyfully sought an oil expert, declaring that he had struck this fluid on his land. He brought a sample in a bottle. Now, evidently my friend had been in a great hurry, hastily grabbing the first bottle at hand, for when the chemist had duly analyzed the sample submitted he sent the following telegraphic report:

"'Find no trace of oil. You have struck paregoric.'"—Woman's Home Companion.

Did Her Part.

Scene—Neighborhood of Town Hall. Time—5 a. m. A large crowd of fine ladies and gentlemen are coming away from a charity ball. A poor woman stands at the outer door asking alms. A lady appears, attired in a white satin wrap, and quickly enters her carriage. "Won't you be so kind as to give me a trifle? The lady pulls up the window. "Impossible! I have been dancing for you the whole night!"—Judy.

Passed Long Ago.

Maud—"He was talking to you about me, wasn't he?" asked Miss Passay.

Anna—"Yes," replied Miss Pert, "he asked me if you were 35 yet."

Maud—"What a ridiculous question!"

Anne—"Just what I told him. I said: 'How long to you expect her to be 35?'"—Philadelphia Press.

He Had His Answer.

'Twas a glorious night, and two lovers sat upon the cliff-side, with the eternal ocean flowing at their feet with a calmness and placidity that was almost appalling. They were looking at the stars above, and he turned to his girl and said, tenderly:

"My darling, I don't understand what you can see in me to love me so."

She replied, "That's what everybody says."

The silence was greater than ever.—Tit-Bits.

The Wily Barber.

Bald-headed Man (who inclines to be facetious)—I'm getting to be pretty bald. Suppose you'll have to cut my hair for half price hereafter, eh?

Tonsorial Artist (who is equal to the emergency)—Oh, no, sir; we always charge double when he have to hunt for the hair.—Tit-Bits.

Where, Oh Where?

First Artist—We must go to nature for our subjects.

Second Artist—Oh, that's easy; but where on earth are we to go for our customers?—Life.

A CURE FOR KLEPTOMANIA.

The Lodger Settled His Taking Landlady For All Times.

An actor in a London lodging house, who had discovered his landlady's propensity for "swiping," numbered and listed his things. One night he roused the household by shouting down from his attic a demand for "No. 8."

"No. 8?" shouted the landlady back. "What No. 8?"

"I want cube No. 8 of my lump sugar," he replied.

Thenceforth the provisions in his cupboard were unmolested.—Argonaut.

Knew Her Ways.

Mr. Gayboy—What did my wife say when you told her I wouldn't be able to come home to-night until a late hour?

Messenger—She didn't say anything.

Mr. Gayboy—Then you must have gone to the wrong house.—Chicago Tribune.

All's Fish, Etc.

The vegetables hurtled upon the stage. Safe in the wings, the star took stock.

"There's a cabbage," he said, "and potatoes and turnips!"

Then stepping boldly to the front, he hissed, "Do your worst!"

This act of bravery won him the tomato for which he had pined.—Punch.

Under Certain Circumstances.

"Is it true, doctor," asked the summer girl, "that eating cucumbers will remove freckles?"

"Of course," replied Dr. Kidder, "under certain circumstances."

"Really! What circumstances?"

"Well, provided the freckles are on the cucumbers."—Philadelphia Press.

Accounted For.

Church—I see the Frenchman uses six pounds of soap a year, the Englishman ten pounds, and the American thirteen.

Gotham—Well, you know Pittsburg is in America.—Yonkers Statesman.

She Called Another Doctor.

Doctor—Madam, your husband must have absolute rest.

Madam—Well, doctor, he won't listen to me——

Doctor—A very good beginning, madam—a very good beginning.—Puck.

He Knew by Experience.

"You understand," said the captain, "that we want a secretary who is thoroughly accustomed to managing men."

"In that case," answered the applicant, sadly, "I'm afraid it's not me you want, but my wife."—Life.

Out at Last.

"Why do they call these dentists' offices dental parlors?" asked Smith of his friend.

LOOKING FOR THE CIRCUS MAN

The circus which was announced would visit this city May 17 will not come, for the man who represented himself to be an advance agent seems to have been an imposter and assumed his position as a basis for borrowing small sums from persons whom he might thus deceive. No one here will admit, however, having been worked.—Boston Sunday Globe.

TO THE SMOKERS

At my cigar manufactory, 38 Market street, the famous brand of cigars the E. B. and Lenox, are made. Finest domestic and imported tobaccos are used. Twenty years experience at the work. A trial will convince you of the quality of my goods.

AMONG THE SPORTS

Items of Local Interest Collected by a "Has Been"

The biggest Marathon race that will take place in this city this season is planned for July 4 under the auspices of the Portsmouth Catholic Union, who conduct a big picnic at Rand's Grove on that date.

The sports at the Portsmouth Brewing Company, who have indulged in many a strong pull at tug of war, appear to have canned that variety of athletic exercise, and to be working for a record in the bowling alleys of the city.

Baseball lovers are anxiously waiting to see the P. A. C. boys on the diamond and are certain that this club can trot out a good team for the season.

A well known member of the Kildare club at the North End, who has known how to shake a leg since boyhood, is out with a bold challenge to any of the step dancers in this locality, but the man who picks up his "defy" must be prepared to kick it out for one hour.

It is surprising how the checker fever has advanced in the last three months in this city and almost anybody who thinks he can produce a surprise on the board can find somebody to meet him. The game is certainly in evidence among the railroad hands and has developed to such an extent that people who have not seen a checker board for years are putting in lots of spare time at the same.

The High school boys were favored by a good day on Saturday and defeated the N. H. College Reserves. There is some likely talent on this year's team.

The employees of the Morley Button company are soon to organize a baseball team. They took their first practice Saturday afternoon and in a short time will be ready to meet all comers.

What has become of the proposed Atlantic coast league It sounded good.

Walter Woods is a prime favorite with the Jersey City fans, and the Jersey City papers have nothing but praise for his work.

It is to be hoped that the proposed ball team of the P. A. C. will soon get into action. It would be worth while to see some of the old timers in line again.

Interest in the Club Bowling league does not diminish, although the Country Club is almost certain of first honors. All the teams are evenly matched and close games have been the rule. The Royal Arcanum presents a strong team and if they had started with the other teams would have occupied a good place on the list.

There has been considerable talk regarding the rowing ability of the respective crews of the South End boats "Yeast Cake" and "Letetr B" and several others of the fleet. The crews should get together for a race at an early date and settle the question once and for all.

Mr. Ed. Brown is to manage the big marathon race to be run on July 5 under the auspices of the Portsmouth Catholic union. A monster Field day is to be held in connection with the race and some of the star athletes are already in training for the different events.

A Penhallow street sport is out with a challenge on eating. His last feat was putting away twenty pounds of steak and several onions.

However he objects to a contest on a foggy day for what reason he will not explain.

THE NAVY YARDS HERE AND AWAY

Rushing the Work

The section crew at the yard are doing a great hustle on the flat iron pier in order that the dock may be in readiness on the arrival of the battleships this week.

Wiremen are Needed

Those wanting work as wiremen will do well to register for the same as the list of that branch of work is exhausted.

The officials are busy making dock room for Maine and New Hampshire. One of the ships will be tied up at the east side of the flat iron pier and the other may go direct to the dock or may take the berth now occupied by the Leonidas.

Got Their Spending Money

The marine guard at the naval prison 143 men were paid today.

Meyers Gets the Job

Charles Meyers for some time connected with the laboring force in the public works departments, has been appointed as watchman at the Daniel street ferry landing filling the place of John P. Tibbetts resigned.

May Make the Clothing

The manufacture of clothing for naval prisoners at this yard is taken as a fact that much of the clothing needed for the navy will in time be made at this station.

More Men Called

The labor board is today sending out a call for forty eight men in the manufacturing department. The list includes 17 pipe fitters, 13 all around machinists, 8 machinists' helpers and 10 laborers.

Big Gang on the Wisconsin

The largest force of workmen who have don ship work since the days of the repairs on the U. S. S. Raleigh are now located in every part of the U. S. S. Wisconsin.

MRS. LOMAS STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Seriously Injured on State Street Saturday Afternoon

Mrs. James Lomas of Pleasant street was struck by an automobile on State street, shortly before four o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and seriously injured.

Mrs. Lomas was unconscious when picked from the ground and taken to the office of the Heating and Plumbing company where she shortly came to. Dr. H. L. Taylor was called and took Mrs. Lomas to the Cottage hospital. She was found to have received a severe scalp wound and to have been badly bruised about the body. No bones were broken and unless she has been injured internally she will recover.

The automobile was occupied by Mr. Cecil Neal, as instructor, and Mrs. Henri L. Bates as learner of the art of operating the machine. They were running very slow.

The automobile turned into State street from Pleasant street when Mrs. Lomas started across the street, and becoming bewildered by the approaching car, stepped directly in front of the machine and was knocked down and dragged some distance.

The driver made every effort to escape hitting the woman, and pulled the car sharply over to one side, but it was of no avail.
